HOOSIERS DEFEAT CHICAGO

The Victory Due to Andrews's Splendid Batting and Daring Base-Running.

The Game Marred with Numerous Errors by Both Clubs-New York Takes the Lead in the Race by Defeating Washington.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CHICAGO, Sept. 16 .- This afternoon Chicago lost its fifty-ninth game, and Indianapolis won its fifty-second, through errors of Burns and Farrell, and the good batting of Andrews. There was nothing in the game to warm the most enthusiastic witness, but for two long hours of indifferent playing the few thousand people present hugged themselves to keep warm, and without energy to jear at Anson, sat still and shivered. The visitors took the field first, and played two innings with nothing to show but two base-hits. In the third Bassett began business, with a basehit and scored on the first of a long series of errors by Burns, which also let Hines first. Seery followed hit into the hands of Duffy. base hit by Andrews brought Hines to third and Denny appeared at bat.
An error now would be good for Indianapolis, and it came. After the first pitched ball with a man on third, Farrell threw to second to head off Andrews. The throw was a wild one, sending Hines home and Andrews to third.
The crowd, already pinched with cold, looked blue enough at this, and were surprised into faint applause by a neat pick-up and put-out by Burns.

From this beginning until the end the Hoosiers continued to score on wild throws, with the exception of the earned runs. Only once did the playing create excitement to the crowd. What little interest there was in the game centered in the eighth inning. Andrews scored on a wild throw by Williamson, and Denny came to bat. A few fouls resulted in his finding the ball, but Ryan was there, and Denuy retired. Very well satisfied with his catch, Ryan petted the ball a moment and tossed it laz-ily to Williamson, who failed to stop it. Had it not been for this, Seery, Who was stealing from second, would have made third. As it was, Burns saw the ball com-ing, dashed for it, picked it up and retired the side, but the winning run was already

The home team came to bat stiff and lazily. Duffy took first on an error, and Anson took his stand, while a few stragglers in the crowd thawed out sufficiently to call out, "Now, give it to 'em, Ans," and more to the same effect. Anson smiled a grim smile, and made two strikes. The crowd gave vent to a few jeers and shivered. A moment after and Anson had given the ball a gentle tap, which sent the left-fielder on a journey, brought Duffy to third, and landed Anson at second. "A two-bagger," yelled the crowd, and for a time the more excitable made a poise as of old but excitable made a noise as of old, but the majority remarked sulkily that it was "about time he did something." The ninth inning did not change the score. nor did it change the verdict of this city, that Chicago's nine heroes cannot play ball, and must leave the field with dragging plumes. Score:

A Statement from President Spalding.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal CHICAGO, Sept. 16,-On Saturday the Associated Press sent out a story from Chicago to the effect that certain mysterious and unknown parties had stolen a march on the directors and proprietors of the Chicago Base-ball Club and had secured an option on the Loomis-street grounds, in which the club has played since its abandonment of the Lake Front park. The story tically nothing, to London speculators for $35,000 or $40,000.

means executed a coup d' etat, and would place a club of their own in Chicago and place a club of their own in Chicago and other League cities the coming season, making Fred Pfeffer manager and captain of the Chicago team. The fact, which is well known, that Mr. Spalding has been preparing another piece of ground for the occupancy of his club next season gave some color to the story that the Loomisstreet park had been allowed to slip out of his grasp. A Journal representative called on Mr. Spalding this evening.

"What is there in the story, Mr. Spalding?" the base-ball magnate was asked.

"Not one jota of truth. That is the plain

"Not one jota of truth. That is the plain fact; not one iota."

"But, have you not lost the option on the old Chicago base-ball park, and has it not been goboled up by some mysterious stranger, presumably a representative of the Brotherhood of Base-ball Players?"

"No, sir; I still have the option. Do you think I would let that go without first being sure that our new grounds would be ready next season? No, sir; any one who says that he has the option simply tells an

"Stuff and nonsense. That's all newspaper talk. You don't really believe that, do you? Why should the boys rebel against the present management? Aren't they treated well? Aren't they paid well? What other business could they go into and earn as much money as they do now? All this talk about the Brotherhood is the work of sensational newspaper writers, assisted by a few soreheads in the base-ball profession."

"Will your new grounds be ready next "Will your new grounds be ready next

"It looks like it. I see the contractor advertised yesterday for 10,000 loads of dirt to fill up the depression in the grounds." Secretary Brown, who was interviewed to-day, said substantially the same thing.
"I talked with Mr. Spalding about these rumors Saturday night," he declared, "and we agreed that they were nothing but newspaper stories. Mr. Spalding has the option on the old grounds."

Decided in Favor of Boston. WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 .- The board of arbitration of the National Base-ball League, consisting of Messrs. Brush, of Indianapolis; Day, of New York; Hewitt, of Washington, and Rogers, of Philadelphia, to which was referred the question of the legality of the Boston-Philadelphia game, have decided by a mail vote that the game is legal, and that Boston should be credited with a victory. This game was played in Philadelphia, and the dispute arose, it is said, through the failure of Johnston. of the Boston team, to run to first base after he had batted in the winning run.

New Thing in Negro Intimidation. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16.—The Courier Journal's Birmingham, Ala., special says: "A strange story comes from Marion county, Alabama. A white justice of the peace, of Intercourse beat, recently went to a negro church while the meeting was in progress, and, stopping the preacher, asked the attention of the congregation for a few moments. The request was granted. Entering the pulpit, the officer of the State drew a paper from his pocket and announced that there were two columns on the sheet for signatures. All who were in favor of a race were rested to sign in one columns race war were asked to sign in one column, race war were asked to sign in one column, and all opposed were requested to sign in the other. The negroes were thrown into a state of intense excitement, and the meeting broke up without any signatures being given. THE QUEST FOR A CRONIN JURY.

Rulings of Judge McConnell-A Man Who Did Not Believe in the Death Penalty.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 .- When the Cronin trial was resumed this morning lawyer Forrest, for the defense, on behalf of Dan Coughlin, challenged the special venire of jurymen on the ground that the regular panel had not yet been exhausted. He said that in the trials of McDonald and Mc-Garrigle, in the celebrated boodle trial which resulted in their conviction, every two weeks they had the regular panel, which was used up before the special venire was resumed. After a brief discussion Judge McConnell overruled the challenge. Exceptions were taken by the attorneys for the defense.

Some interesting matters were developed in the examination of Cyrus M. Davis. He was asked the question: "Have you conscientious scruples against the death pen-alty?" and answered: "I have on circum-stantial evidence." "Suppose the circumstantial evidence was strong enough to convince you beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the par-ties, would you still object?" "Yes, sir."

The State's Attorney—I challenge the juror for cause. Mr. Forrest-I object.

The Court-The question is, if in a case of that kind you should find the defend-of that kind you should find the defendants guilty, supposing the evidence is in that direction, would you be opposed to capital punishment?

"No, sir."

The Court—I take the position that the statute does not contemplate a difference between the kind of evidence. If a man is conscientiously opposed to the infliction of the death penalty in any case he is an incompetent juror, but if he is opposed to it simply because the evidence was entirely circumstantial, he does not come under the statute. Without passing upon the question, I will ask the juror a question: You seem to have considered the difference between positive and circumstantial evi-

Answer-Yes. "What would you do, independently of this question, if sitting upon the jury, if all the evidence was circumstantial? Would you consent to a verdict of guilty if you were convinced beyond all reasonable doubt of the guilt of the defendants, and that verdict involved the death penalty?" "Yes, sir, if I understand the question, provided it did not contain capital punish-tween positive and circumstantial evi-

"Would you be unwilling to find a verdict involving life imprisonment?" "If the evidence warranted I should be in favor of life imprisonment."
Mr. Mills-He is pledged against the death penalty. The Court-I am going to sustain the challenge on the ground that I do not think a man is a competent juryman in a criminal case who is willing to come to a verdict upon a certain sort of evidence which may involve a certain penalty, and which to the minds of many men is more severe than the death penalty, when in his own mind he distrusts his judgment on the evidence itself, and is unwilling to inflict the death penalty where the evidence convinces his mind beyond all reasonable doubt. I do not think he ought to be a introduct this case and excuse him for juryman in this case and excuse him for Another case of precisely similar character came up in the afternoon and brought out a long discussion. At its conclusion the court ruled as before, sustaining the challenge for cause. An exception was Cooney Thought to Be in Custody. CHICAGO, Sept. 16.-It was rumored tonight that Pat Cooney, "the Fox" in tie Cronin case, was in custody. Color was given to the rumor by the fact that Chief Hubbard and Captain Schuetler and detective John Collins, to whose efforts the identification of both Cooney and Burke is due, called at the State's attorney's office about 6 o'clock, and had a long conference with the attorneys for the prosecution. They declined to state the object of their business, but it was said, on good authority, that they had called to talk about Cooney.

"Old Hutch" a Victim of Foot-Pads. CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The many times a millionaire, B. P. Hutchinson, better known as "Old Hutch," the great manipulator of the grain market, was the victim of footpads early this morning. He had just left his office, where he spent the night, pre-sumably devising some new scheme for a squeeze on the Board of Trade, and was quietly sauntering home. At the corner of Van Buren street and Pacific avenue the van Buren street and Pacific avenue the old gentleman was suddenly accosted by two tough-looking men, who demanded his money or his life. Mr. Hutchinson threw up his hands without a murmur, while the highwaymen searched his pockets. They found nothing, so "Old Hutch" claims. Immediately on their leaving him, the venerable financier yelled lustily, "Police." Several officers responded, but the bootiless thieves escaped. the bootiless thieves escaped.

Return of Another Chicago "Boodler." CHICAGO, Sept. 16 .- Hannigan, the excounty commissioner accused of "bood-ling," who ran away from Chicago two years ago to escape prosecution, has returned from Canada. He walked into Judge Horton's court this morning, and asked that he be allowed to give bail for a future hearing. Judge Horton held him in
